SCHOOLS AGAIN FACE PROBLEM OF CONGESTION

921 In High School, Designed To Accommodate Only 600

ENROLLMENT UP IN GRADES, ALSO

Figures Are Submitted To Board By Supt. Earl S. Kerr

Today 921 students are crowded into Salem High school, a building which comfortably can accommodate 600.

This startling fact was disclosed Monday night by Supt. E. S. Kerr to members of the board of education at their September meeting.

Congestion Growing

Congestion at the high school apparently is becoming more pronounced each year, the superintendent pointed out. At this time last year 859 pupils were enrolled. So far, this year's registration has surpassed that figure by 62.

Total enrollment of Salem public schools today is reported by Supt. Kerr as 2,653. At the opening of the 1936-37 term it was 2,623. Enrollment this year in the various schools is as follows:

Columbia, 203; Fourth Street, 338; McKinley, 302; Prospect, 207; Kelly, 244; Junior High, 436; High school, 921, and home instruction, 2.

The board of education last night approved the appointment of Miss V. V. Kopp as a clerk to handle census and attendance records. She graduated from the high school in 1936.

Board members voted also to purchase a limited number of instruments for the high school band and orchestra. The instruments in types which parents seldom buy for their children. They include an oboe and a bassoon, to be used in both band and orchestra work; a French horn, for use in the band; a viola and a cello, both of which are orchestra pieces.

Texts Are Adopted

The adoption of basal texts in reading and a text book in music was approved by the board upon the recommendation of teacher committees which studied text books last year.

Board members heard the recommendation of H. W. Cameron, coordinator of the Trades classes, that credits to students studying office practice be given if a cooperative arrangement can be worked out with local business offices by Cameron.

The plan carries the board of education approval—if and when the business houses are found willing to join in the program. Miss Elizabeth Steer, school nurse, reported 84 visits to preschool children during July and August; 89 home visits and nine visits to physicians.

John Engaged; Presidential Family "Pleased"

Plans For Marriage To Anne Clark, Boston Deb, Not Formulated

(By Associated Press)
NAHANT, Mass., Sept. 14.—John Roosevelt, handsome, strapping Harvard undergraduate and only unmarried member of the nation's first family, is engaged to pretty Anne Lindsay Clark, Boston debutante, but wedding plans have not been formulated.

The youngest son of President and Mrs. Roosevelt made this clear after his fiancée's mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, widow of a wealthy Boston banker, announced the engagement, ending weeks of rumors and constant denials.

"We haven't made any plans yet for getting married," said John, a senior at Harvard. "I've got to finish one more year at college you know. Then I hope to get into advertising as a commission salesman. Just where we'll settle down I don't know. It may be Boston."

Although the announcement was made yesterday, John disclosed that they were engaged at the time he escorted Miss Clark to the wedding of his older brother, Franklin, and Ethel Dupont on June 22.

It was a whirlwind courtship apparently. Only last April 1, Mrs. Clark announced that the engagement of her daughter to Samuel Stevens Sands of Middleburg, Va., had been broken, with the explanation "it was more or less a hasty romance anyway."

Sands, son of Mrs. Richard Whitney of Far Hills, N. J., and New York, and a grandson of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, was a classmate of young Roosevelt at Groton, and is now at Harvard.

The engagement of John and Miss Clark had President and Mrs. Roosevelt's blessing.

At the President's Hyde Park, N. Y., estate, James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son and secretary who married a Boston debutante, said "the family is very pleased."

Miss Clark, slender and blue-eyed, is 21, four months "to the day" younger than John. She is five feet, five and three-quarters inches tall. John is six feet four inches tall. She wears her blonde hair in a long bob.

HEALTH NURSE RESIGNS POST

Miss Elizabeth Steer Accepts Assignment In Columbus

Miss Elizabeth Steer, health nurse in Salem for the last eight years, has handed her resignation to board of health officials, to take effect Oct. 1.

Miss Steer, who also has served as public school nurse since 1931, has accepted a nursing position at the Friends Rescue Home in Columbus.

She intends to leave for Columbus early next month, and her position with the board of health probably will be filled at a special meeting of the board soon.

Miss Steer, who resides at Damascus, graduated from the Salem City Hospital School of Nursing in 1927.

Active in work of tuberculosis prevention in Columbiana county, Miss Steer is president of the Friends Welfare Council. She also has aided in crippled children's work.

Two Are Arrested By Highway Patrol

Mike Theil of R. D. Beloit, arrested by State Patrolman R. M. Perry on a charge of driving while intoxicated Saturday night, was fined $100 and costs by Mayor Robert Manchester at Canfield.

Theil was arrested after his automobile and another machine figured in an accident on Route 165, northwest of Salem.

Patrick Carey of Columbia st., Leetonia, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor John Arnold at Leetonia Monday night when Carey pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge, preferred by State Patrolman R. I. Governor.

Country Club Will Hold Shoot Sunday

Salem Country club officials began preparing for another big trap and skeet shoot Sunday when leading marksmen from northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania are expected to compete at the club's gun range.

George Baillie, chairman of the club sports committee, announced today that a large number of shooters have indicated that they will participate in the Sunday event. The shoot will be non-registered, but prizes will be awarded winners, Baillie said.

In the "dinner shoot" now in progress at the club between teams captained by Nate Hunt and Dr. G. A. Roose, the Hunt team leads with an average of 42 compared with an average of 39 for Roose's team.

The first match of the dinner shoot, which will continue for four consecutive Sundays, was held last Sunday. Scores were:

Hunt's team—Seeds, 44; Englehart, 44; Hunt, 44; Baillie, 41; Hamilton, 41; Carnes, 43; Goodman, 37.

Roose's team—Chisholm, 44; Rinehart, 46; Gilmore, 43; Roose, 43; McAllister, 42; Percival, 32; Hans, 23.

The shoot, which is half trap and half skeet, will continue next Sunday. The teams are open to additional membership.

Sheriff's Aids Find Body Of Woman

LISBON, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Susan Cox, 76, of Elkton, was found dead in bed at her home at 7:30 p. m. Monday after neighbors called Sheriff Harry L. Gosney and Deputy Chris Pusey to report she had not been seen around the house for a day.

Coroner Arnold Devon held an inquest last night but withheld his verdict. However, he indicated she had died of natural causes.

Mrs. Wilmer Moreland, a neighbor, reported seeing Mrs. Cox last on Sunday afternoon. She is believed to have died that night.

Mrs. Cox, who lived alone, leaves several nieces and nephews near Sebring and Middleton, Pa.

The body was brought to the Frank Henry funeral home here. Funeral arrangements are not complete.

Citizenship Test Is Planned Sept. 17th

LISBON, Sept. 14.—John B. Fickes of Wellsville will deliver the address of welcome to successful naturalization candidates after an examination to be conducted in the court house Sept. 17.

A class of 31 foreign born residents of the county will be quizzed at that time by a representative of the naturalization and immigration department of the government.

Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones will preside.

BLACK IS SILENT ON KLAN ISSUE

Vacationing In Europe, Refuses To Comment On Charges

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black maintained complete silence in London today on allegations that he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, as Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans reiterated Black's name is not on the rolls of the organization and former Governor Alfred E. Smith planned to join the controversy.

Evans asserted in Atlanta that attacks on the newly appointed justice from Alabama were "simply the result of a New York political issue."

"This is just like any other political fight," he said. "When a candidate sees he is going to be defeated he begins to rake hot coals. It will be all over when the votes are counted and they tell how bad Copeland was beaten."

He referred to New York's Democratic senator, Royal S. Copeland, candidate for mayor with Smith's support, who said of Black, "in all honor and decency he should resign at once."

Copeland's headquarters announced that Smith, Tammany

Vanguard Of County Fair Fans On Hand For Opening

Preliminary Judging Gets Under Way; Races And Other Contests Scheduled Wednesday, Thursday

LISBON, Sept. 14.—Hammers pounded and saws hummed today at the fair grounds as exhibitors and fair officials put the finishing touches on preparations for the county's 1937 fair.

Activities apparently required the services of all types of craftsmen. Carpenters, electricians, and other mechanics were equally busy Monday evening, laying flooring, extending wires and erecting concession attractions.

A few sheep and hogs were installed in their pens Monday evening. But the real influx did not start until Tuesday morning. Then all roads leading to Lisbon were crowded with fair bound traffic.

Trucks by the score entered the grounds—some bearing livestock; others outstanding representatives of the vegetable kingdom.

Some judging was accomplished today and attractions have been reserved for Wednesday and Thursday.

In addition to $1,800 offered in purses for racing events, winners will receive loving cups. The donors are The Rogers Furniture Co., the Lincoln theater and Morgan's Drug store, Lisbon. Three Salem

STOUFFER ARMS SELF AS DEATH PROBE GOES ON

BORROWS WEAPON FROM POLICE HERE

Declines Invitation To Attend Parley In Youngstown

LISBON, Sept. 14.—Quoting George Hurley, assistant to Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, as saying there may be "some bombing and shootings, so you'd better get yourself some bodyguards," Columbiana County Prosecutor Karl T. Stouffer today heeded the state official's advice.

Hurley, in Youngstown investigating the slaying last week of Roy "Happy" Marino, Youngstown underworld character, near Rogers, called Prosecutor Stouffer from Youngstown Monday afternoon.

Today Stouffer was armed with a 22 calibre revolver and a 38 calibre "police special."

Advised to Protect Himself

The county prosecutor said he was advised to protect himself against any possible violence as a result of the joint investigation of Columbiana and Mahoning county authorities in the Marino killing.

Hurley is reported to have suggested that Stouffer have someone guard his home at night. The prosecutor, however, has been staying in Salem lately.

The "police special" which Stouffer carried in a shoulder holster today, was borrowed last night from the Salem police department.

The prosecutor disclosed that Youngstown police and others asked the Columbiana county authorities to come to Youngstown today to confer with investigators in that city.

"None of us are going," Stouffer said. Sheriff Harry L. Gosney and his special investigator, George Curran, also had been invited.

No Connection

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy declared today that thorough investigation of the slaying of Mike Russell in Wheeling, W. Va., disclosed it had no connection with the "ride" slaying of Roy (Happy) Marino near Youngstown Friday.

The attorney general said that on the basis of information from the prosecutor's office at Youngstown yesterday he had believed the two killings—a fortnight apart—were connected in some manner, but reported today that they were not linked.

Busy investigating the entire Ohio parole system, Duffy said he was temporarily withdrawing his investigators from the actual death of Marino, Youngstown gambler who served part of a bank robbery sentence before winning a commutation from former Gov. George White.

Duffy said, however, that he was pressing forward with all speed in the parole inquiry, and that he expected to summon special grand juries within the next two weeks in Youngstown, Canton, Cleveland and possibly Toledo, Cincinnati and Columbus.

An aid from the attorney general's office will be in charge of Rev. B. H. Shaddock was returned to his Damascus charge, but Rev. C. W. Kennedy of Willard was assigned to Lisbon.

The western rural district, composed of Hanover, Knox, Butler and West townships authorized a $235,000 program.

East Liverpool also will vote on renewal of a one-mill levy for maintenance of the fire department for five years, and Wellsville will pass judgment, in a referendum, on councilmanic legislation abolishing a section of a street to provide a site for enlargement of the Sterling China company's plant.

Nyon Signatories Bound To A Dramatic Scheme To Rid Vital Mediterranean Shipping Routes Of Submarine Attacks

BRITAIN, FRANCE GO INTO ACTION

Signers Awaiting Italy's Decision On Invitation To Join Patrol, Though Plan Is Effective Regardless Of Duce's Views

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—Nine European powers signed the Nyon pact today, binding them to a dramatic scheme to rid vital Mediterranean shipping routes of pirate submarine warfare.

Great Britain and France immediately swung into action to concentrate a mighty fleet on the inland sea.

Nine torpedo boats from the French Atlantic fleet—with fresh cargoes of supplies, including munitions, taken on at Brest—drove quickly toward their Mediterranean patrol posts.

They augmented a formidable fleet of British warcraft already at Mediterranean stations.

Together, the Anglo-French war vessels, comprising the backbone of the international fleet, will have 60 warships on patrol duty.

The nine powers await Italy's decision on an invitation to share the responsibility in arrangements for patrolling the Tyrrhenian sea, off the Italian western coast.

Effective Immediately

The accord and its vast plan for driving maritime marauders from commercial lanes became effective immediately, whether Italy accepts her assignment or not.

Neither Germany nor Italy, included among the 10 powers invited to Nyon by France and Britain, attended the momentous talks in the sleepy little Swiss village on Lake Geneva near where Albania, dominated in foreign policy by Italy, also declared the invitation.

The Rome and Berlin governments rebuffed the bid in the heat of tension last week over Soviet Russia's grave accusation that Italian submarines torpedoed two Soviet merchant ships in the western Mediterranean.

The text of the protocol follows the lines of a draft approved on Saturday zoning the Mediterranean and its lesser seas and authorizing warship members of the international police force to sink any piracy-bent undersea craft that pokes its periscope above the waves.

No Rights Granted

The accord specifically declares there is no intention to grant belligerent rights to either side of the Spanish conflict from which the crisis sprang—neither the Valencia, Republican government nor Francisco Franco's insurgent regime.

The pact, moreover, exempts Spanish merchant vessels from protection of the international patrol.

Signatories of the pact in addition to Britain and France were Russia, Roumania, Turkey, Egypt, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Greece.

France and Russia expressed satisfaction with the accord through their foreign ministers, but Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet representative, took exception to the fact that protection was not extended to vessels of the Spanish government.

Litvinoff said, however, that the conference was successful because participants were "on the side of peace."

Congratulations the Nyon delegates on their work. Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France said: "Without overlooking other forms of aggression with which he will be concerned at Geneva, you have succeeded first in settling the gravest problem—that of submarine attacks."

Delbos did not disclose, however, the nature of the "other forms" which would occupy the League at Geneva. He declared that only Italy's acceptance of the invitation to participate in the naval patrol was necessary for a happy ending. This has been reported extended "in principle."

Truck Backed Into Fire; Damage $400

LISBON, Sept. 14.—Trucks often catch fire from faulty mechanism, but seldom do they run right into a fire.

A truck owned by the Nelson tree trimming company, and working for the Ohio Edison Co., office in Salem, was damaged to the extent of $400 yesterday afternoon near the fairgrounds here when the driver backed the truck up to a brush fire.

He was preparing to unload additional cuttings but misjudged the distance and ran the rear of the truck over the blaze. The rear of the vehicle was destroyed. Luckily, the gas tank was in front.

Leniency Advised

MARION, Ind., Sept. 4.—One hour after six cases of soap disappeared police captured what they called "the dirty face gang."

Detective Captain Matt Humble said the culprits, five boys ranging from six to ten years, told him they took the soap because "we wanted to clean up before going to school."

WHERE RESCUE BEGINS

The noise of New York City's primary fight has echoed even to Ohio, where politics is a dead subject at the moment.

Rival Democratic factions are knifing each other for the privilege of trying to beat Mayor LaGuardia in the November election. Dr. Royal S. Copeland is Tammany Hall's candidate. Jeremiah T. Mahoney is the New Deal candidate. Republicans who can't swallow LaGuardia are in the middle of the firing.

And what's the firing about? Why, it seems that Sen. Copeland and Mr. Mahoney can't agree on national issues. One is a Democrat, and the other one's a new dealer. Sen. Copeland, in other words, has been unfaithful to Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mr. Mahoney's willing to be faithful, if he gets a chance. They're having a white hot campaign over it.

Some day there will be a municipal campaign in which the candidates won't be expected to talk about a thing, except their qualifications to conduct the affairs of the city honestly and intelligently. It won't make a whit of difference what they think about the price of paper clips in Fiddieville, unless that's where they live. It's bound to happen; Americans can't be crazy about local government forever—or can they?

FRONT LINE NEUTRALITY

Americans hope their countryman Harold Dahl, who has been traded for one of their own aviators by the Spanish rebels, will quit the war business before he gets shot down again. They wish he and all other Americans flying in the Spanish and Chinese wars would come home and go on home relief if they need funds so badly.

Dahl's wife, appealing to Gen. Franco for her husband's release, explained he "was and is neutral." That must have sounded like a bad joke to the hard-bitten rebel leader. For if an American trying to kill rebels from an airplane is neutral, then Franco's Moors, who are professional killers, must be neutral too.

There's no way to get rid of professional soldiers and indentured ones, except to kill them. Most of them are fully aware of what they're up against; it's not neutrality they must worry about, but one of the oldest and most universal laws of mankind—thou shalt not kill. A professional soldier, without even the emotion of patriotism to comfort him, goes to death with no more glory than any other murderer.

CHINA WINS THE GLORY

It's likely that at the scene of action in China there's no temptation to bet against Japan. Despite setbacks, the stronger military power still is an overwhelming favorite to emerge victorious.

Yet, according to reliable observers, the same thing is happening on the spot as is happening thousands of miles away in the minds of newspaper readers following the war from a distance. Japan's prestige as a super-fighting power is falling.

To revert to the much discussed heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr, it's as though Japan and China were in the 15th round after Japan had been favored to end the fight with a knockout in the third.

It doesn't matter much now who wins the fight, because China, like Tommy Farr, has won the glory. The champion's ability to defend his reputed supremacy has come under a shadow of doubt.

In the orient, where prestige—"face"—means more than life itself, the vital issue of the Sino-Japanese clash may already be settled. By failing to save "face" the Japanese militarists may have given China's unorganized hordes the one thing needed most to enable them to resist invasion—confidence in their own strength as opposed to that of the invaders.

Senator Nye charges that the NLRB is partisan. Nonsense. It is eminently fair to both sides provided neither side is an employer.—H. I. Phillips in New York Sun.

Talking of schooldays giving mothers a holiday may be all right as a pleasantry. The responsibility of getting the children off for the day is something else, not to mention fears for their safety.—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

Vandenberg claims that the Democrats have reduced the number of unemployed to less than 3,000,000, but the administration indignantly denies it. A Republican can't even say it's a nice day.—The New Yorkers.

As nearly as can be made out from reports coming from New York about the mayoralty race Mahoney is pro-Roosevelt, Copeland is anti-Roosevelt and La Guardia is pro-La Guardia.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—Manhattan has an unusual number of sartorial eccentricities among its celebrities. And as in all densely populated centers, such dressy dicos create little stir. Nobody pays much attention to what the other fellow wears. He is far too interested in himself.

Whitney Warren, the architect, clings to a wide black Stetson on all occasions, although an otherwise up-to-date dresser. George White, of the theatre, sticks to his midget bow ties and blue serge suits and can rarely be induced to don evening clothes.

Hal Phye, the handsome photographer, has worn Indian moccasins since babyhood. And is, incidentally, regarded by del sarte disciples as the most accomplished of graceful walkers. Lucius Beebe, the journalist from Boston's Back Bay, wears evening clothes of slightly purplish tinge.

Joe Laurie, Jr. is known for his baggy cap worn half aback. Franklin P. Adams is a pushover for bright yellow four-in-hands and Arthur William Brown started the blue-collar-to-match-the-shirt vogue. And Lee Shubert clings to white edgings on his vest upon auspicious occasions.

Joe Louis may not be the most popular champion but it's generally agreed he will rank with Gene Tunney in financial astuteness. While Tunney feathered his nest at the jump of the gun, he was bedeviled by lawsuits that proved a constant drain. Louis's fortune is now edging the million. Reliable advices are he is possessed of something more than $500,000 and it has been scattered three ways—government bonds, annuities and trust funds. Sparkling rather feebly on most topics he shows alertness about the dollar. Many believe his next championship fight will be worth $750,000, which will make him richest of his race in America.

Restaurant owners have a horror of Death stalking a feast. A sudden passing in a well-crowded restaurant, if generally known, wrecks more then temporary havoc. Even old established patrons brushed by such tragedy, may not come back. A demise in a dining room, if not concealed, slows up business for several days. So in every well organized restaurant captains and waiters are expertly trained for such emergencies. When a patron slumps at his table from any cause he is immediately propelled to the kitchen where medical help may be summoned, and if death has been a visitant the body may be removed through back doors without disturbing diners. Many deaths in restaurants have thus been glossed over so diners believed that a patron had merely dined and wined beyond capacity.

Shiela Barrett is one of the few women who can give a perfect imitation of a male drunk—so creditably that it is impossible to believe she is not sloshed to the gills. To my mind no raconteur, however, has yet touched Jim Barton in his delineation of the Irishman staggering from saloon to saloon to show his mad dog bite. He acquires an imaginary jag before your eyes. Hugh Herbert, of the movies, is so slouch portraying the amiable stew, either.

New York beaches have had two shark scares this summer, reviving again the moot question: Does a shark bite a living person? Most great authorities say no, but several of repute claim to have found indisputable evidence. But this fact remains: All the evidence is second hand! No one has been found who actually saw a shark attack and bite a swimmer. William Beebe, who has gone into the subject exhaustively, shows his contempt for the theory by going into shark-infested waters to splash about whenever in such areas. The shark is vulture of the deep and lives on carrion. Human legs and arms have been found in their stomachs by fishermen, but these are believed from those drowned.

In crossing the Gulf of Mexico from Key West to Galveston one summer our slim passenger list on a listing tub was reputed followed by sharks. Most of us sat for hours in deck chairs, scanning the water with binoculars. Two in our party reported seeing them several times. Later they confessed they were just trying to crack the tedium of a stupid journey. One of the strangest things in the world is that you cannot get people to tell the truth regarding anything concerning fish.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, September 15

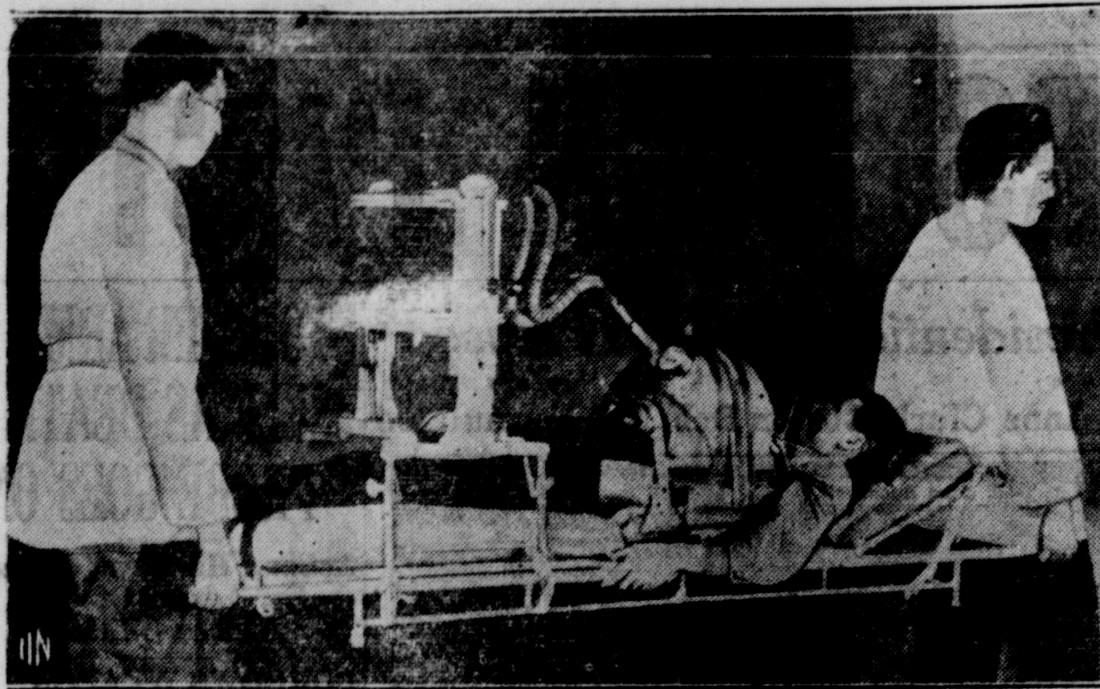

The auguries for this day point to exceedingly important and memorable events, with great tension and activity in all departments of human interest. All are under high stimuli or constructive efforts, which will respond in preferment, honors, increase of finances, enhanced popularity and prestige, with an enlargement of scope and opportunity for the achievement of very lofty ambitions. It is a propitious time for pushing for such goals, possibly with cleverness, strategem and persuasion rather than directness or dogged determination. Be careful with speech and be alert to treachery in personal contacts as well as business.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of major events, with important developments in both the business and private lives. Matters will all be under high pressure for rather strenuous action in the direction of progress, prestige and prosperity. But in such lofty achievements it is recommended that tact, strategem and shrewdness be employed rather than drastic or tumultuous demeanor. Be alert to craft and subterfuge in all relations.

A child born on this day may be brilliantly equipped or a successful, powerful and distinguished career, doubtless high in power, popularity and public service. It may become a politician or strategist.

Swedish Device May Replace "Iron Lung"

This new type respirator, recently brought to New York from Sweden, is said to be a long step in advance of the American "iron lung" in the treatment of patients with paralysis of the chest. Made of aluminum, it covers the chest and abdomen, leaves the lower part of the body free and eliminates most of the discomfort the larger machine may cause. It also allows for adjustment in treating kidney and other ailments.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

JAUNDICE

NOT SO long ago the liver was thought to be the seat of most of mankind's discomforts. In my boyhood it seemed to me half the ailments I heard about were called "liver complaints." Everybody said, "my liver is sluggish."

In those days even the doctors were prone to use the liver as the part of the anatomy on which to hang a diagnosis. Whenever the symptoms of some intestinal or even some general disorder appeared vague and uncertain the term "hepatitis," or inflammation of the liver, was used to embrace them. Of course, there really is such a thing as hepatitis, and, unfortunately, many persons suffer from it. But it is not as frequently met as it was in former years. The improvement may be due to our increased knowledge of diet and the protection of health.

Acute form
Inflammation of the liver, more commonly called "acute catarrhal jaundice," or "epidemic jaundice," is the acute form of diseases of the liver. It is marked by jaundice of the body and usually severe digestive disturbances.

Strange as it may seem, the actual cause of this disorder is not known. It is probable that some unidentified micro-organism or germ is responsible for it. The germ may reach the intestinal tract by contamination of the food prepared by infected cooks or other food handlers.

At first the victim complains of headache, nausea, diarrhea and increased temperature. The fever soon disappears, and then the patient notices a severe itching of the skin. The skin becomes a canary yellow color and occasionally has a greenish tint. Even the bodily se-

Rarely Fatal

The acute symptoms disappear quickly, but the jaundice may continue from three to eight weeks, or even longer. The disease readily responds to treatment and is very rarely fatal. Occasionally a stubborn case may require hospital care.

The patient should be given a diet consisting chiefly of carbohydrates, with just a little fat as possible. If food cannot be swallowed because of marked nausea and vomiting, the doctor will suggest other ways of giving the nourishment.

The irritated and itching skin can be soothed by frequent alkaline baths. Calamine or hyposulphite of soda lotion may be applied, but complete relief is had only after the disappearance of the jaundice. Daily evacuation is essential, but strong purgatives must be avoided. The treatment, diet and medication should be given under the supervision of your doctor. Though it is not a serious disease, it may prove annoying and disabling for several weeks. Early medical care will hasten recovery.

"THE CAPTIVE BRIDE"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER XIV

Boom, dressed with unusual care and flaunting a huge felt shamrock on his flannel shirt, entered from the living room. "An' it's my nose that knows when yop're baking 'em, darlin'!" He eyed the pan with professional approval and, with the air of one conferring the highest praise, added, "I couldn't have done a better job myself."

Harp, radiating silent contempt, stood glowering at his erstwhile friend, whom Honey-Jo was seating in the easiest chair at the table. She placed before Boom a plate of hot rolls, a pat of butter and a cup of coffee. Then, obviously as an afterthought, she invited Harp to draw up also.

"No, thanks!" he refused, in a voice edged with meanness. "I've just had my stomach turned."

Boom addressed Honey-Jo: "He must-a looked in the mirror."

During a moment potent with violence the two glared at each other. Then Harp, with set jaw, turned abruptly on his heel and slammed out the door and upstairs to his room.

Meanwhile, in the card room, Van Cleve was trying to teach two-handed bridge to Denny, whose mind was patently not on the game. She kept turning to look at a window through which the pale sun poured in. She was wondering what devil of perversity had caused her to refuse Bourne's invitation to do the very thing she wanted, and then add that sentence about Van's teaching her two-handed bridge when she loathed card games of all kinds.

Furthermore, she was realizing, for the first time, the advisability of giving greater consideration to the effect of her words on Van. For he was looking at her with a warmth that made her deeply uncomfortable.

Her real feeling for Van was one of maternal pity, to which was added a sincere and growing admiration; for day after day, though he said nothing to her about it, he sat alone in the card room, patiently trying to train his left hand to do what the right had once done.

It occurred to her now that she had been playing with fire. That she had, in her unthinking selfishness, been misleading a crippled man while satisfying her own petty spite.

"Denny!" Van's voice broke in on her abstraction. "Come back to me—it's your deal."

"Oh, I'm sorry, I—I—!" She took up the deck, but the next moment decisively put it down. "Look here, Van," she said, regarding him squarely. "I don't want to play cards. I don't know what possessed me to say so in the first place. I want more than anything else, to get out of doors in the cold, pure air. To breathe it, to walk and walk until I feel light and clean and—and—" She finished with a gesture of her hand because she was unable to put her feeling into words.

Van turned a searching look into the clear depths of her eyes. He could not draw the curtain of icy reserve across his eyes quickly enough to hide the flicker of hurt that had come into them.

A change of mind is the privilege of your sex, Mrs. Bourne," he said coldly; and began to lay out a game of solitaire.

Denny slipped into her white, scarlet-handkerchief, adjusted her emerald cap and, filled with the vague expectancy of the Commander and Revelry Bourne, Denny, almost unwittingly, turned her steps toward the scene of activity.

For no reason that she could name, she was happier than she had been for months.

She reached the yard unobserved by the two white men and stood watching them for a moment.

The Commander finally straightened, his face red. "Kamerad!" he gasped, laughing. "Back and legs are still serving—but bally old wind giving out!"

Bourne tossed his hair back and wiped the perspiration from his forehead. "Gosh! I've been hoping you'd ease up for the past five minutes!" he confessed, grinning.

Denny could not suppress a ripple of laughter. At the sound, both white men whirled to face her, and the missionary came forward with a warm greeting.

She was chatting with him and Bourne when a wizened Indian with a swollen jaw hobbled reluctantly into the foreground. He was being energetically propelled from behind by his squaw, who halted him before the Commander. "See!" She pointed to her spouse's lopsided face. "Him got tooth. She's hurting him. Maybe-so you fixum?"

"Of course, of course!" was the Commander's hearty response.

After he had disappeared with his apprehensive patient, Denny and Bourne moved away together up the road. "I couldn't bear the thought of staying penned up in doors today, Reval," she said. "I'm going to take my lunch and go off for a long hike across the upper plateau." She expected he would ask to accompany her or would renew his invitation to ride behind the dogs; and she was ready to favor him with a gracious acceptance and then show him what a good companion she could be when she chose.

But he replied, "A splendid idea, Denny. The going is good when you top the ridge." His footsteps slackened to pause. "I'm sorry to have to leave you here, but Derek is waiting at the warehouse for me to look over the tarpaulins before he makes out an order for new ones."

Denny managed an unconcerned word of parting and continued her walk up the road. But, for her, all the sparkle, all the beauty, all the exhilaration of the day had suddenly vanished. She knew, in her heart, that she had gone down to the woodpile with the definite intention of permitting Revelry Bourne to take her for an outing. She had made her first advance and he had refused to leap at the opportunity she offered him. Worse than that—he had not, apparently, even been aware that it was an opportunity.

"I hate him! I hate him!" Deliberately she worked herself up into anger as she stamped along the hard-packed snow. "And when spring comes I'll—I'll..." The thought ended in frustration and vagueness. When spring came, something was certainly going to happen. But what it was, she did not exactly know.

April brought a sudden rise in temperature and rain that drummed continuously against the window panes; graying the white world, melting the crystal barriers of winter, and freeing a scarcely perceptible fragrance that spoke of live, wet bark and incipient leaf buds.

One afternoon, during a lull in the downpour, Derek and a corps of helpers removed all the storm windows from River House.

This commonplace incident had an extraordinary effect on Denny. It seemed to symbolize the striking off of shackles; the liberation of her repressed spirit. She paused in her dressing for dinner and threw up her bedroom window—the first time she had been able to do so for six months.

A wash of fresh, damp air rushed in from the valley, filling her nostrils and making her feel newly alive.

When she went back to her dressing, she arranged her hair in a new, more becoming fashion and put on a green dinner dress she had seldom worn before. As she went downstairs, the voices of Bourne and Van Cleve came drifting up from the living room. They evidently were discussing matrimony. "Love alone is not enough in this country, Van," Bourne was saying with unusual earnestness. "When a man with his life bound up in the North, his ideals and viewpoints those of the pioneer, happens to fall in love with a 'down-below' girl whose blood, ideals and viewpoints are all at variance with his own, he's just in an awful fix, that's all."

"Spoken from a heart as hot and romantic as that of a glacier," came Van's acidly amused comment.

"Not at all. Up here, any man can sweep almost any woman into a brief, hectic love affair. But there's only one thing that can save their marriage from becoming a cold-toast proposition and that is for one of them to embrace, wholeheartedly, the life of the other."

Denny, listening, thought with resentment, "And it's quite evident, from what I know of you, that the only life to be embraced is yours."

She could see into the living room, now, to where the two men sat in the lamplight, and she wondered if she only imagined that the darkly handsome older face of Van Cleve lacked the assurance, the informed maturity, which dwelt on Bourne's less comely countenance. Tongass was, as usual, resting his muzzle on his master's knee, his eyes lifted with intentness to his god's face.

Van said, "Well, life's too short to waste any of it trying to bring a woman round to my viewpoint. But if I ever found one who would look at me the way that wolf-dog of yours looks at you, Rev, I might forget all the disagreeable things I've learned of the sex—and marry her."

Bourne laughed. "Nope, you wouldn't. Van. Blind love, without understanding, is what a man expects from his dog. But from his wife... he wants her to know him in all his phases, good and bad, and love him despite the bad ones."

Denny was trying to grasp the significance of his words when Rio, descending the stairs, spoke from behind her.

She turned to see the older woman also dressed for dinner, Rio looking unusually attractive, in her black velvet gown.

"Don't faint, Denny!" she grinned. "I'm in my party clothes tonight in celebration of an anniversary—the anniversary of my divorce from my sainted Julius." The sound of her voice brought Bourne to his feet, facing the doorway.

"At last!" he exclaimed, smiling. "The sun has broken through the clouds!" His words might have been addressed to either of them, or both.

Rio, swinging her hips, sauntered over to him. "The sun is blond," she replied, with a meaning glance at his well-brushed hair. "What quency in the situation that moved Denny to linger.

Her appraising gaze moved over Bourne, as he stood with his heels back to the blazing logs. More than once, lately, she had wondered whether she might not, by sheer physical appeal, so work on him that he would grant her release from her prison. Sometimes, recalling that first night with him in the grove by the river, she felt that she could. Then, remembering other passages with him, she was doubtful of the efficacy of any feminine wiles to move him from a predetermined course.

But it was something deeper than any doubts of success that kept her from attempting such a conquest; something even deeper than her natural recoil from such a course which, she felt, was cheap and unworthy.

"What are you thinking about so intently?" His voice broke a short silence.

"Of you—and me. And the ridiculous role you have forced me to play so long. But it's nearly over. I felt spring in the air today. The break-up cannot be far off."

"No. It can happen any time after the first of May." He ignored her implication of departure.

"Then, almost over night, the hills will be green again, shimmering in the south wind."

Court Rules Brent Is Still A Husband

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—George Brent and Constance Worth are still husband and wife.

Superior Judge Charles E. Haas held yesterday that Brent, handsomely film leading man, and Miss Worth, Australian actress, went through a Mexican wedding ceremony in good faith.

Brent petitioned to have the marriage annulled on grounds it did not comply with Mexican law.

"It is apparent in this case," said Judge Haas, "that Mr. Brent seeks to abate his marriage contract on technical, non-essential points required by Mexican law. But inasmuch as both parties lived together x x x that was sufficient to establish their civil contract under both Mexican law and the law of this state."

JAPANESE ARMY MASSES ATTACK

Splashes Onward Through Rain Against Chinese Second Division

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 14.—The Japanese army splashed forward through a torrential rain today in a massed attack against Chinese second line positions northwest of Shanghai.

A Japanese spokesman reported that the strong fortifications at the Chinese civic center of Kiangwan had been occupied and the Japanese troops had pushed deep into the delta. The muddy roads were jammed with Japanese reinforcements moving up to bolster the assault against the new Chinese line.

Heavy artillery and tanks splattered across country behind the advancing Japanese infantry in the flooded delta lands.

New horror was added to the tragic story of undeclared war at Shanghai when the Chinese Central News agency reported 400 civilian war refugees had been killed or wounded by Japanese bombs rained on the film sailing boats in which they were fleeing the city.

Three of the boats were said to have been sunk and six damaged. The undefended decks of the open boats were crowded with frightened Chinese, huddled among their luggage and portable possessions.

After their four-mile retirement last night, the Chinese forces took up their new positions extending in almost a straight northwest line from Shanghai's north station for 30 miles to the banks of the Yangtze river above Liuhoo.

They appeared undaunted by their strategic withdrawal which their commanders explained was made to afford better coordination of the various Chinese units and to avoid the heavy fire of Japanese warships.

The tenacious Chinese, who had fought the Japanese advance to a stand-still for almost five weeks, still had three powerful defense lines intact to the west.

Naval Guns Belch Fire

Whangpoo warships hurled tons of steel at the new line which Chinese claimed was impregnable. Japanese bluejackets in the North Szechuan road district joined in the attack, engulfing the northern environs of Shanghai in the continued fighting.

Despite the drenching rain, fires burned over the destroyed sectors of the city and miscellaneous shells from both armies continued to burst over the foreign areas, spraying them with shrapnel.

17 States In Pact On Parole System

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Seventeen states will join a compact this month providing reciprocal supervision for paroled prisoners, justice department officials said today.

The pact will be signed at Kansas City by governors of the states or their representatives September 24-25 at a two day meeting of the interstate commission on crime. It will bind the 17 states to supervise native citizens paroled from prisons in other states. The commission sponsored the pact, contending it would eliminate "sundown" paroles in which out-of-state prisoners are paroled with the understanding they will cross the state line by sunset.

States expected to sign the compact include Arizona, California, Delaware, Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

CLUB CONVENES AT COLUMBIANA

Rotary Resumes Its Programs After Summer Schedule

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 14.—The Columbiana Rotary club, meeting Monday evening at Valley Golf links resumed its programs after holding curtailed meetings during the summer months.

C. F. Moser of the program committee introduced the guest-speaker, Floyd C. Lower of Lisbon, county farm executive, who gave an instructive talk on agricultural lines. Mr. Lower compared the life and customs of farmers two generations past with those of the present days and said that "farming had changed from a mode of life to a business."

The old-time farm family lived almost entirely on the products of their own farm, while now the average farmer buys 60 per cent of his living. Some of the problems developed in recent years are the loss of foreign markets for farm products; the decrease in farm fertility and losses by erosion; and the loss of values in farm property. Lower said he could suggest no remedies for these problems in a limited time, but told of efficient work done by the CCC camp in this county on about 100 farms.

Lauds County Growers Lower pointed out that Columbiana is exceptionally fortunate in its farm surroundings, being the center of some of the best fruit, potato, vegetable, poultry and dairy farms in the state. One of the three largest egg marketing stations in the state is located in Columbiana, and the potato growers of this county and Mahoning are known as the pioneers in potato marketing.

The fruit, apple, potato and egg producers here are known as specialists all over the state.

Rotarian Wilbur Springer, Salem, was a visitor. Edgar Miller, club vice president, was welcomed back to club fellowship after spending three months at his summer cottage at Madison-on-the-Lake.

The Women's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the church, instead of Wednesday, as previously announced. The subject of the lesson is "Youth." Verne Moser, Ellen Esterly and Ruth Hammond will give a report of their studies during a week spent at the Wooster Young People's conference.

Mrs. J. C. Strubel will preside and Mrs. R. J. Esterly will lead devotions. All ladies of the church are invited.

Enrolls at Wooster Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith accompanied their daughter, Mary Louise, to Wooster Saturday, where she has enrolled as a freshman at the College of Wooster.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Esterly and family, Mrs. J. V. Esterly, Russell Esterly and son, Billy were Sunday guests of Mrs. Anna Pike, Canton.

The class of the Presbyterian Sunday school taught by Mrs. R. J. Esterly will hold a wiener roast Wednesday evening at the H. W. Hammond farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fisher and son, Teddy, McKeesport, Pa., were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hum.

Miss Helen Tullis, Alliance spent the weekend here with relatives.

L. E. Holloway is a Pittsburgh visitor today.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Ohio Girl, In Coma, Gaining Strength

CINCINNATI, Sept. 14.—Physicians said today Ruth Marian Hedgecock, 18-year-old school girl who fell into a coma seven months ago, was gaining strength and "should be entirely normal within six months."

The girl suffered a fall five years ago when a student at suburban Norwood High school, interrupting her high scholastic record. Dr. Herbert Schmidt said she had fallen into several comas in the last two years, one lasting five months and another which started last fall. Dr. Schmidt, who denied Hedgecock was suffering from "sleeping sickness," diagnosed illness as "a condition of anemia." She uttered her first words seven months just 10 days ago, Schmidt said, and is now able to comb her own hair.

Chicago Physicians "Find" Disease Of Criminal Tendency

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Two Chicago physicians asserted today their research had disclosed the existence of a disease that stimu-lates criminal tendencies.
Tests, based upon microscopic and chemical analysis of spinal fluid, indicated an abnormality of cell count was in direct proportion, to the extent of the criminal character of the persons tested, the doctor said.

The physicians, Dr. S. W. Brownstein, of the board of health, and Dr. M. H. Levy, of the Cook county jail staff, declared they believed pathological disturbances were prime factors in making "repeat-ers" of criminals.

Experiments were conducted on nine prisoners deemed "repeaters" by virtue of numerous arrests.
In normal persons, Dr. Brownstein explained, the spinal fluid is clear and has few or no cells from destroyed brain or spinal cord tissue. In diseased persons the cells increase.

Fluid extracted from the nine subjects revealed a cell count ranging from 26 to 137 per cubic centimeter. The normal count is three to eight cells, the doctors said.
While this count showed only the possibility of known illnesses, such as meningitis, syphilis or paresis, the usual chemical test for these illnesses disclosed the presence of a disease which as yet, Dr. Brownstein said, has no name.

"We're merely beginning" he averred. "I'm convinced, however, that there are pathological causes for crime, and I believe our studies are a step in the right direction."
Warden Frank Sain, of the Cook county jail, said, the tests may eventually be used to determine whether applicants for parole are likely to re-enter a life of crime.

LAKE TONNAGE SETS NEW MARK

Freight Through Sault Ste. Marie Locks Is High For Season

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14.—The record-shattering pace of Great Lakes commerce today had established two more all-time marks for the "inland seas."

Passage of 13,937,099 tons of freight through the Sault Ste. Marie locks during August sent the season's total to date soaring to 60,964,692 tons, an unprecedented figure exceeding by 348,000 tons the previous record of 60,616,452 tons established for the period in 1929.

Last month's tonnage surpassed that of August, 1936, by 4,000,000 tons.
Isaac DeYoung, locks superintendent, announced that despite a series of heavy fogs at the head of the lakes, 3,243 vessels moved through the St. Mary's river last month.

The second all-time peak was achieved in the movement of bi-luminous coal from Lake Erie docks.

For the week ended Sept. 6 loadings aggregated 30,798,961 tons. The corresponding total last year was 27,977,949 tons, although in 1936 the August dumpings were greater than those of last month.

A total of 5,820,383 tons of coal were shipped during the past month, compared with 6,151,662 tons in August, 1936.
For the 1937 season to Sept. 6 the figures are, 29,679,539 tons of bituminous for cargo and 1,119,422 tons for fuel. The comparable 1936 figures, 27,098,678 tons for cargo and 879,262 tons for fuel.

The Green Island, trim new mo-torship of the Ford Motor Co., which entered service in June, went into dry dock last week at Detroit because of damage caused when the vessel's bottom rubbed in the New York state barge canal. The wooden ship Liberty, damaged in Cleveland harbor, will follow the Green Island into the Detroit dry dock. The Leonard B. Miller is scheduled to go into dry dock at Lorain.

The Cleveland & Buffalo Transit company's big cruise steamer Secandbee will close her season this week. The passenger excursion steamer Goodtime, of the same line, has ended its season between Cleveland, Cedar Point and Put-in-Bay.

Shipping interests probably will request the federal government to order removal of Cleveland's "lower West Third street" bridge, an old structure which failed to function last week because of a mechanical breakdown. Plans for reconstruction of the Fassett street bridge over the Maumee river at Toledo have been approved by the secretary of war. Repairs include strengthening of abutments.

Captain Chester W. Willett, supervising inspector for the bureau of marine inspection and navigation for the Great Lakes district, J. Frank Staley, admiralty attorney for the bureau at Washington, and Captain J. L. Ahern, commander of the Chicago division of the U. S.
Coast guard, have opened a so-called "A" board inquiry into the sinking of the Pittsburgh Steamship company's supply boat Frontier below the "Soo" July 19.

CORN OUTLOOK IS IMPROVING

Ohio Conditions Better; National Estimates Are Reduced

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Ohio's corn yield outlook improved during the past month, the federal state crop reporting service said today, while estimates of production on a nation-wide scale were being reduced.
Glenn S. Ray, agricultural statistician, said the outlook in Ohio on Sept. 1 was 158,193,000 bushels, compared with 121,605,000 bushels last year and a five-year average of 129,257,000 bushels.

"The crop averaged somewhat better than a month earlier in the parts of the state, but conditions vary widely, especially in the northern third of Ohio where, on the whole, the outlook is poorer than in other sections," he reported.
The anticipated yield would be the highest since 1931.

Estimates of corn yield on a nation-wide basis were cut 100,000,000 bushels yesterday by the federal crop reporting board.

Ray said September reports also indicated a small increase in the potato crop. Forecasts for oats, spring wheat and buckwheat were lower.

The outlook for crops besides corn:
Oats turned out much poorer than expected earlier in the season and now promise but 35,69,000 bushels compared with 40,535,000 bushels in 1936 and 60,392,000 bushels.
The five-year (1928-32) average, Barley production, at 875,000 bushels, is the same as on Aug. 1.

Buckwheat gives promise of 330-000 bushels compared with 330,000 last year and 410,000, the five-year average.

Sugar beets are expected to produce 218,000 tons compared with 259,000 tons in 1936. The five-year (1928-32) average is 218,000 tons.

Tame hay production is expected to amount to 3,256,000 tons compared with 2,715,000 tons in 1936, and 2,796,000 tons, the five-year (1926-32) average.

Pastures held up remarkably well during August. The average condition on Sept. 1 was 88 per cent compared with 89 per cent on Aug. 1.

Organization Of Men's Tenpin Bowling Gets Under Way As Three Leagues Form

One Class A, Two Class B Loops Are Organized For Bowling At Temple Lanes

National, American And Federal Leagues Prepare For 1937-38 Season; Eight Teams To Compose Each Of Masonic Loops

Three men's bowling leagues, which will use the Masonic temple alleys for their 1937-38 activity, were organized for the new season at meetings at the temple last night.

The leagues formed are National, Federal and American. The National circuit is for Class A bowlers, while the Federal and American leagues are for Class B kiegler.

The Federal league is new this season. Organization of this circuit is the result of breaking up last season's old 12-team American league.

All three of the Masonic men's leagues will be composed of eight teams. Only six of the eight teams have been selected for the National loop, but the Federal and American leagues have been completely filled.

The six teams already in the National league are: The Salem News; defending champion; Bunn's Shoes; Mullins Manufacturers; Mullins Foremen; Masons and Young Democrats. The two vacant team berths in the Class A loop may be filled by the Ohio Edison, Elks or Brownie's Service Station, it was indicated at the meeting.

Members of the Federal and American leagues are: FEDERAL — Fernengel's Colts, Salem News, Sanitary Shop, Sanitary Office, Columbiana County Engineers, Natural Gas Co., Electric Furnace and Salem Firemen.

AMERICAN — Ohio Edison, Masons, Mullins Foremen No. 1, Mullins Foremen No. 2, N. L. Reich Sports, Electric Furnace, Demings and Mullins Press Room.

The National league will continue to bowl on Tuesday nights this season. Two nights were available for the two Class B leagues and a toss of a coin decided that the American league will bowl on Mondays and the Federal league on Fridays.

The two Class B leagues will open their seasons next week, the American loop, Monday, Sept. 20, and the Federal, Friday, Sept. 24.

The National league plans to open its season Tuesday, Sept. 28. The reason the Class A circuit delayed its opening date until two weeks from today was due to the fact that only six of the league's eight teams have thus far been named.

All three leagues decided to increase their "kitty" fees for the season in order to pay for hiring a foul line referee for all league matches. The National league boosted its "kitty" fee to 15 cents a man, while the American and Federal loops decided on a 10 cent fee.

In raising its fee from 5 to 15 cents, the National loop not only plans to pay for a foul line referee, but intends to increase its prize money.

The American and Federal leagues went from 5 to 10 cents merely to pay the foul line referee and took no action on increasing their prize money by boosting the "kitty" fee an additional 5 cents.

It was announced at both Class A and Class B meetings that the price of bowling at the temple will continue to be 15 cents a line.

The National league reelected its present officers, President Jim Primm and Secretary Clyde White, to serve for another season. The American league named Bill Carlisle as its president and Bill Juergens as temporary secretary. Al Frethy was elected president of the Federal league and Jack Ballantine was chosen secretary for this circuit.

Both the American and Federal leagues voted to pay their secretaries $16 for their season's work and to continue to pay them averages and performing other duties. The National league did not take any action on paying its secretary.

The National league retained its $5 entry fee for each team, but the two Class B circuits raised their entry toll to $7 a team in order to provide for paying their secretaries.

The only action on rules taken by the National league was the drafting of a temporary regulation concerning the eligibility of bowlers who compete in the league.

This rule provides that only residents and workers of Salem or persons living within a 10-mile radius of Salem, not served by recognized bowling alleys, may bowl in the National league.

The American and Federal leagues temporarily adopted the constitution of the old American league and decided to start all match games on the alley on which a team is scheduled.

A motion that teams failing to appear on time for the first game of a league match be forced to forfeit all three games was voted down by representatives of both Class B leagues.

The rule governing penalty to teams failing to appear on time will remain the same as it was in the American league last season. This states that if a team fails to appear on time for the first game of a match, but is on time for the second game, it will forfeit the first game, but will be permitted to bowl the second and third games.

Announcement was made at both Class A and B meetings regarding the $35,000 stake which is being sponsored by a national bowling

PENNANT PRIZE AS GIANTS AND CUBS MAKE BID

National League Leaders All Set For Final Swing

BY BILL BONI

To the utter confusion of Tim Pan alley, the Giants and Cubs have their eyes wide open, but they're definitely not dreaming.

Wrapped up in a pennant fight that's as close as a seal to his skin, the National league jumping jacks haven't time to dream. There's too much pressing business.

That business started today, and with a pronounced bang. The Giants, a game and a half in front, stacked up a twin bill against the Pirates, while the Cubs jumped into an 11-game home stand with two against the Bees.

Manager Bill Terry has his pitching staff in satisfactory shape for this final swing through the west.

Carl Hubbell and Al Smith, two of his three aces, were ready for today's calls, with Hal Schumacher, whose sudden recovery of control has been such a help, Cliff Melton, the first-year man who's an all-year sensation, and Harry Gumbert in line for future starting assignments.

The Giants, with 24 games to go and three less defeats than the Cubs, play only six at home. The Bruins, to make things tougher, have 14 of their 21 remaining engagements at Wrigley field.

Right now everything points to three poker hands — full houses — when the Giants move into the Cub park a week from today for a three-game stay. Those games very well may be the clinchers in a race that, from a standpoint of conclusions definitely arrived at, might as well be starting all over again as going into the final three weeks' drive.

There is a possibility, however, that either contender will walk into the world series over a door-mat laid down by their respective "stooges." The Terrymen, who have beaten Brooklyn in 12 out of 15 tries, close out the year with three appearances in Flatbush. The Cubs, having won 12 of 15 from the Cards, will meet them in six of their last ten games.

BIG FELLOWS WITH LOTS OF "BEEF" MODE ON SALEM HIGH'S GRID TEAM

When it comes to size, Salem High school's Quakers will be right up there with the biggest of the scholastic football teams this fall. Coach Carl F. Schroeder is surrounded with big fellows. In fact, he's probably got more hefty grid-ders on hand this year than Salem High school football teams have had in many a season.

Although it's a recognized fact that it takes more than "beef" to build a winning football team, the big fellows come in mighty handy at times and are definitely the mode in Salem High school football this year.

On the presumption that Schroeder's got to use some of these huskies, let's look ahead, strictly on our own hock, and see just how big this new Quaker grid team is going to be.

The center position is going to be about the lightest spot in the line. This post will undoubtedly be held down by Mike (Scrap Iron) Cerbu, whose steel-built frame carries 155 pounds.

Cerbu, a letterman, who played some at end last season, appears definitely slated for the snapper-back job. The other players out for the position are Dick Jones, and Bob Shoe, a sophomore.

Both Jones and Shoe are lighter than "Scrap Iron Mike" and neithere is equipped with xarsity experience comparable to Cerbu's. Most of the weight in the forward wall will be concentrated in the guard and tackle posts.

Two of the guard candidates are bigger than the average college guard. Bob Kirchgesner, one of these two, tips the scales at 183 pounds, while Harold (Poke) Fitzsimmons, the other of the two, boosts the weight needle around to 195.

Kirchgesner is a letterman with backfield experience in addition to line service. Fitzsimmons is not a varsity letterman, but he is a reserve monogram wearer with a good share of game experience.

Kirchgesner and Fitzsimmons are not sure bets to get the first string guard jobs. There's Joe Mike Guappone, 165; Ralph Taylor, 170; Lloyd Walker, 170; Melvin Wukotich, 168, and Marvin Wukotich, 170, to be considered before the first team jobs are handed out.

Charles Wentz, a letterman, is working out at a guard post but the experience he boasts was gained at a backfield berth. Wentz is among the highest of the guard candidates, weighing about 160 pounds.

Moving over to the tackles, we find just as many big fellows available as there are at the guards, although there are no experienced grid-ders out for this position.

The biggest of the tackle candidates, whom Schroeder figures on using this season, are Dave Cope, Richard Beck and Leonard Bon-sall. Cope tips the scales around 200 pounds. Beck weighs 180 and Bon-sall, 176.

Other players seeking a tackle job are Joe Veld, 219; Leonard Pier-sol, 185; Frank Skowran, 155, and Carroll Greene, 145. Veld is a freshman, who is showing great possibilities in daily practices.

There's not so much weight at the end positions where Bill Schaeffer, letterman, and Julius Nestor seem the logical varsity combination. Schaeffer weighs 170 pounds, which is not altogether what you'd call light, while Nestor weighs 158.

Bob Sanders, 150-pound senior, has a good chance of rating one of the end berths if either Schaeffer or Nestor fail to come up to what Schroeder expects of them. Also bidding for a wing post are Dick Terry, who weighs 164; Gil Everhart, 165, and Budd Walters, 153.

The weights of most of the possible backfield regulars appear small compared to the line weights, but regardless, they're above average for a scholastic team.

Leading backfield candidates and their weights are: Bill Malloy, letterman, 150; Oliver Oleka, letterman, 165; Bud Dean, 156; Stu Wise, 150; Joe Morris, 140; Max Lutsch, 178; Bill Rogers, 148; Bob Clark, 140; Don West, 134; Clarence Woerther, 163, and Milan Mileusnic, 145.

Lutsch reported for practice for the first time yesterday. Schroeder hopes to be able to work him into a fullback, thereby solving one of his most serious backfield problems.

Although inexperienced in football, Lutsch is a natural athlete. He is six-feet, two inches in height and was a member of Salem High school's crack 1936-37 basketball team which went to the state finals at Columbus.

There's no doubt Marse Joe McCarthy will be offered a renewal; probably on a long term basis and possibly at an increase over his current $35,000 salary. The Yankee pilot won't discuss the details with his boss, Col. Jacob Ruppert, until after the world series.

Similarly McKeeMcne can have the job of bossing the Bees as long as he wants. There's grounds for suspecting, however, that the squire of Wilkinsburg, Pa., may be offered a pilot's job elsewhere on terms so flattering that he can't refuse and the Boston club can't match them.

Sunny Jim Bottomley may be given a full season chance to manage the Browns but the race is wide open for the Cincinnati job. Chief Scout Wallace, now in charge of the Reds, was manager of the St. Louis Browns in 1911-12.

Frisch hardly can be blamed for the shortcomings of the Cardinals this year but St. Louis observers have been discussing the probability of his replacement.

O'Neill and Traynor both are on the spot. They cannot be blamed for mishaps that hurt the chances of the Cubs they direct but demands for shakeups may force both to relinquish leadership.

The list of experienced or available replacements is limited. Babe Ruth has been ambitious to get a big league manager's job ever since he quit the Boston, in 1935, but no club seems interested in the big fellow's potentialities. Rogers Hornsby, rated a great judge of talent, isn't likely to get a comeback chance, in view of the circumstances under which the Browns dropped him.

RED HAVEN NEW PILOT AT HELM

Dressen Released; Name Bobby Wallace As Acting Pilot

CINCINNATI, Sept. 14—The Cincinnati Reds went into a double-header with Brooklyn today under a new temporary pilot.

Charlie "Chuck" Dressen, released of his managerial duties he held for three years, packed his belongings at the clubhouse and said he had no definite plans for the future beyond "I still will continue in baseball."

General Manager Warren C. Giles named Bobby Wallace, who has spent nearly 50 years in baseball, as acting pilot.

Coaches Tom Sheehan and George Kelly, who Dressen once insisted remain with the club over managerial protests, also were given their unconditional releases.

Speculation turned today to Dressen's successor but Giles said the appointment would not be considered "until after the world series."

The sudden dismissal announcement nevertheless started baseball circles to guessing between Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Philadelphia Phillies, Casey Stengel, Former Dodger's pilot, Rabbit Maranville of the Montreal International club, and Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, field general of the San Francisco Seals.

"We have the money to get the best man available," commented Powell Crosley, Jr., owner of the last place National league club. Giles reiterated that a complete revamping of the team would be made this winter.

CANTON, Sept. 14—The Canton Terriers and Akron Yankees moved here today for the second game of the Mid-Atlantic league championship series after Canton took the first game at Akron last night, 5 to 4.

It was a see-saw battle all the way in the first of the three-out-of-five-game series for the $700 first prize and $300 second prize in the league's Shaughnessy play-off finals.

Kay Francis and Basil Rathbone, appearing in "Confession" at the State Wednesday and Thursday

Kay Francis is said to have one of her best roles in "Confession", which shows at the State theater Wednesday and Thursday. In the picture, the story of which was adapted from the famous continental stage drama, "Mazurka", Miss Francis is starred with Ian Hunter, Basil Rathbone and Jane Bryan play important supporting roles.

The story concerns a once-great singer, now reduced to cabaret jobs, who learns that the man who ruined her life years before is about to ruin her daughter's.

Kills Betrayer

When she sees the two of them together in the cabaret, she kills him and, at the end of a vivid and suspenseful trial, is acquitted on the grounds of justification. All the action is laid in Warsaw and in the picturesque settings reproducing that ancient Polish city.

Miss Francis plays the opera singer, and Jane Bryan is her daughter, Basil Rathbone is the suave betrayer, and Ian Hunter is a war-hero from whose arms Kay was lured by the wiles of Rathbone.

Other well-known players in the cast include Donald Crisp, Dorothy Peterson, Robert Barrat, Laura Hope Crews, Ben Welden, Mary Maguire, Helen Valkis and Veda Ann Borg.

"Thin Ice" the second Sonja Henie film, in which she is teamed with Tyrone Power, concludes tonight at the State.

Double Bill at Grand

A double bill will be offered at the Grand Wednesday and Thursday. The first feature is "Dangerous Adventure" featuring Don Terry, Rosalind Keith, Nana Bryant and John Gallaudet.

Tim Sawyer (Terry) is boss of the Gale steel mill, which on the death of Gale has just come into the hands of the magnate's young daughter. Spencer Allen, general manager, is endeavoring to undermine the mill sufficiently to force Linda Gale to sell out at a low price.

The second picture, "Footloose Heiress", is a romantic comedy starring Ann Sheridan, seen here recently with Pat O'Brien and Humphrey Bogart in "San Quentin".

Craig Reynolds, whose roles in previous pictures have cast him as a screen villain, appears opposite Miss Sheridan in a romantic role. Kay Alllyn (Ann Sheridan), the "footloose heiress", is racing to an elopement with her father (Hugh O'Connell) in pursuit. At a railway crossing a happy-go-lucky hobo (Craig Reynolds) offers to help Mr. Alllyn overtake the fleeing couple.

They catch up with Kay and her would-be groom at the minister's house and Butch, the hobo, breaks up the ceremony. Thereafter he and Mr. Allyn are friends. Kay, enraged, tries to make a laughing stock of Butch, who turns out to be the son of a rich advertising executive himself, by pretending she is in love with him.

A Happy Ending

Butch sees through her scheme, but when he tries to leave, she realizes that she is really in love and follows him to a happy ending. Whitney and Johnny Downs, will be seen at the Grand for the last times tonight. Featured at the theater for the last times tonight are the official pictures of the Joe Louis-Tommy Farr fight.

each grand jury's proceedings, he said.

May Call Grand Juries

Duffy recently asked Gov. Martin L. Duffey for permission to call grand juries in any counties he wished, so as to subpoena witnesses in the parole investigation. The power to subpoena would not otherwise be his.

Indications were that use of grand juries also would help in the financial side of the work, since $1,000 allotted to the attorney general by the state emergency board was running low.

Although Governor Duffey has not formally granted approval for the grand juries, he said last week that "of course" he would do so. Duffy intended asking him again tomorrow for this formal sanction.

The attorney general said he had made no report to the governor as yet on his investigation, which was ordered by Duffey, but that he expected to make a partial report tomorrow on a fatal gun battle near Springfield in which three paroled convicts were involved.

A report on the full inquiry will not be made until all is completed, he declared.

He gave no inkling what his recommendations would be in the Springfield case, in which a bandit and two police officers were killed and three other persons were wounded.

BLACK IS SILENT ON KLAN ISSUE

sachem, who took the stump last night in behalf of Copeland's candidacy for the Democratic and Republican nominations for mayor in Thursday's primary, would express his views on the Black matter in a political speech tomorrow night.

While the controversy raged, Justice Black, vacationing in Europe, seemingly was content to let members of the administration answer the attack. He has been silent since the charge first was brought up in the senate following his appointment. When reached in London, he refused to comment on a newspaper article that he had been a member of the Klan, had resigned and subsequently had become a life member.

Originated In Pittsburgh

The article which precipitated the new verbal storm originated with the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and was distributed by the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Several senators who voted "no" when the senate confirmed Black's nomination by an overwhelming vote, agreed that his position as a member of the supreme court was secure. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R-Mich.), suggested the senate should reopen the matter of Black's confirmation if "unequivocal proof" linked him with the Klan. Previously Senator David Walsh, (D-Mass.), asserted President Roosevelt should demand Black's resignation if the newspaper article was correct.

VATICAN WARNS NAZI LEADERS

Says Blood Of Priests May Be Shed If Paganism Goes On

(By Associated Press)

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 14.—The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano warned in a stirring editorial today that the blood of priests may be shed in Germany "as it was in Spain" if Nazi paganism goes on.

This, said Osservatore Romano, can be the consequence in the third Reich unless anti-Christianity "ceases to sow the seeds of hatred and to vilify every sacred thing."

The sudden, column-and-a-half warning was spread on the front page of the newspaper.

Prelates said it was read and approved by the Holy Father himself.

It drew the conclusion that religious peace in Germany had been rendered virtually impossible by the just-closed Nazi congress at Nurnberg, where the church was under attack again by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, the minister of propaganda, and others.

The situation, said Osservatore Romano, is "a fatal union of the state with the forces hostile to Christianity."

It went on to say that an anti-religious book in Spain was the precursor to later "atrocities against priests." It demanded:

"Who can guarantee to the present rulers of Germany that the seeds of hatred and the vilification of every sacred thing, now maturing ever more powerfully under the eyes of the authorities, will not produce on German soil, too, the fruits that should bring terror to every true friend of the German people and of their future?"

The newspaper held it was obvious that continued support is being given to anti-Christian forces by the German state. This, it added, gravely prejudiced "the religious conciliation (with Germany) which the holy see has sincerely hoped for."

Ohio River Survey Discloses Pollution Control Laboratory

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The army engineers announced today they had begun preliminary work to carry out provisions of a bill intended to make the Ohio river a pollution control laboratory.

The bill, passed by the recent congress, provides for a survey of the river to determine means of abating pollution by sewerage and industrial waste.

The measure authorized the army engineers to conduct the survey. President Roosevelt signed it with an objection on the grounds the study should be made by the public health service.

He suggested appointment of a committee of three by the treasury and war departments. The committee, which army engineers said would be named shortly, will be composed of an engineer, a representative of the health service, and a non-government expert.

War department aides said the army engineers planned to get preliminary work out of the way and thus enable the committee to begin its broader study promptly.

Pollution abatement advocates said the results of the survey probably would be submitted to congress as a possible basis for a national program to rid streams of disease-bearing sewage and other wastes, particularly near large cities.
